Shots

Your pup has had it's first set of shots at 6 weeks old, and will need them again at 10 weeks and then at 14 weeks (Confirm this with your vet). Due to a weak, and developing immune system, your pup is extremely susceptible to puppy sicknesses, consequently your new pup should not be around any other pets until they have completed their immunizations.

Worming

Your pup has been dewormed with strongid at 6 weeks old (please see your vet).

Food

When you receive your pup it is fully weaned and has been eating innova large breed puppy food. Feed you new pup often. A young puppy should be fed approximately three times a day. If you desire to change his food to a different brand, then do so very gradually. Mix a little of the new food with the old, and gradually increase the amounts of the new food. The entire transition should take about 2 weeks, during this time the puppy may have a little diarrhea. Your puppy's stomach is sensitive, but will adjust accordingly.

Adjustments

You new puppy is going to take about 5 days to adjust to his new surroundings, during that time it may cry often, may seem unhappy, and may refuse to eat for a day or so. It will eventually settle in to his new surroundings. During this time, hold him often, talk to it with a soothing tone, just give it a lot of love and attention, and make sure it has plenty of water to drink.

Potty Training

Your new pup is not potty trained and WILL have some accidents until it learns where and when to use the bathroom. The best way to potty train your new pup is to take it outside right after feeding it. Take it to the exact same place each and every time. Praise him a bunch when he uses the bathroom outside. Also take him outside the very first thing you do in the morning. Dogs even puppy's are smart, and he will be potty trained before you know it. Never spank or hit your puppy or any animal.

Bedding

Find a warm place to keep your new puppy. Do not allow it to stay in the cold for a prolonged time. Find or build a small box and place a towel in it.

Registration

You pup comes with AKC registration puppy papers, you will have to fill out the form and submit to the AKC. Read the directions carefully.

Bathing

Until your pup has reached 12 weeks old, do not bath him in anything but warm water. Dry him very well and be careful around the facial area.
